CAMPUS CLIPPINGS

There were two injuries in the Navy game. Alminde received a painful bruise on the shoulder. Charles Pick broke a bone in his foot, leading the cheers. WOW!

We are happy to note that the debating societies of the Freshman and Sophomore years are functioning in such fine style. There's talk of a Fresh-Soph Debate to take place in the near future. Freshman Rules will not be the question to be discussed.

The student who takes no interest in school activities is father to the man who does just what his employer tells him to do and nothing more.

Instead of following the practice of the past few years, why don't the debating societies schedule outside debates now and not wait until next spring?

Who said: "Play close to the ground; you haven't so far to fall"?

The Seniors held a Class Night, but judging from the number present, one might have mistaken it for a board meeting.

Now that football is over, activities will be transferred to the gym. "Vicious" Rodgers is captain of the quintet this year.

Of course everybody will be present on Wednesday afternoon for the annual Frosh-Soph "upheaval." Both teams are working hard to give us a first-class brand of football, and both are equally confident of victory. But only one team can win, and a tie means ties for the Frosh! "Dan" will have a hard time picking a winner here.

The Greyhounds had a small but loyal band of rooters with them at the St. John's-Brooklyn game. "Ike" George was there—he never misses—and had an opportunity all his own to try out the new Loyola cheer.

The Faculty and Student Body of Loyola College wish to express their deep and heartfelt sympathy to Mr. George C. Jenkins and to Mr. Ral Parr upon the death of Mrs. Laura Jenkins Parr.

INAUGURAL DANCE WELL ATTENDED

Soph Frolique Voted As Real Start for Social Season

At one o'clock on Thanksgiving morn the curtain was rung down in a blaze of glory upon the scene of the "Sophomore Frolique" of the Class of '31. cavaliers glided across the floor with their ladies to the strains of "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and all was over. "The song was ended but the melody lingered on." Thus closed Loyola's first social affair of the season, a success in every way.

The Dance defies description. Even Loyola's sons themselves did not recognize their gym, banked as it was in pines and bedecked with streamers, pennants and labyrinths of confetti. Nearly every student of the College helped to swell the attendance, which surpassed all expectations. Those few who were not present missed one of the best dances of the season, as those who attended can assure them.

Between dances light-heartedness and laughter held sway as the troubles of student life took wing. "King Levity" ruled supreme. The terror of the hour, the sinister threatening of water—works drifted into oblivion, hurried on by the carefree, happy spirit that prevailed.

The "froliqing" reached its zenith when confetti was distributed and the "froliques" wove endless, pathless mazes of paper amid the streaming decorations and scented pines.

SENIORS SELECT OFFICERS FOR YEAR BOOK PUBLICATION

At the meeting of the Senior Class, held at Evergreen on Sunday, November 18, definite steps were taken for the publication of the year book, "The Green and Gray."

In former years the edition of this testimonial has been a spasmodic affair but last year saw its establishment on a somewhat more substantial basis. The Editor and Business Manager are elected by the Senior Class and they in turn select their respective staffs, with representatives from each class and activity in the college.

At the recent meeting Joseph Blair was elected to handle the financial end and Hugh Allen Meade will be responsible for the literary efforts. Both of these men are preeminently capable in the tasks assigned. Joe Blair possesses a thorough understanding and appreciation of the value of salesmanship as has been evidenced by his rapid rise with the International Magazine Co.; and judging from the quality of his contributions to THE

CARD PARTY HELD IN GYM HUGE SUCCESS

Over Five Hundred Attend; Miss Leslie Wins Ford Sedan

The enjoyable Evergreen card parties which have become near-traditional around the city added another triumph on the evening of November 27, which if we can judge from the enthusiastic attendance of over five hundred players could be termed the best yet.

Card skill found ample reward in the distribution of many desirable prizes, while Lady Luck smiled broadly on Miss Loretta O'Neill and Miss P. Kenly, the winners of the two door prizes. The old standbys of Bridge and Five Hundred were rather intruded upon by the innovation of Bingo, which met with wide approval.

The Ford Sedan Raffle proved the crowning event of the evening and as a result of her foresight in "holding the right card," Miss Les-through traffic hereafter.

The splendid work of the various committees was evident in every phase of the evening. Mrs. J. J. Crouse, Chairwoman of the Prize Committee; Mrs. Rose Lanahan, Tickets; Mrs. Louise McDonald, Cards; Mrs. Hugh Kavanagh, Cakes and Candies; Mrs. Margaret Reuter, Refreshments; Mrs. C. J. Voyce, Chairs and Chances; Miss Rose Murray and the Misses Kearney, Markers, are to be congratulated.

Mrs. Robert P. Arthur, Miss Helen Byrne, Miss Bertha Chambers, Mrs. T. A. Keelan, the Misses Landy, Miss Catherine McGraw, the Misses McCann, the Misses Reuter, the Misses McDonald, Miss Marie Rosenberger and Miss Mary Tonry proved able assistants to the committees.

Mr. "Ike" George was very much in evidence as announcer as well as acting on the Ford Raffle Committee, together with J. Stanislaus Cook and Frank Horgan.

INTERCLASS GAME ON DECEMBER 5

Both Teams Confident of Victory; Probable Line-up Given

On the afternoon of Wednesday, December the fifth a mighty struggle, between two relentless and uncompromising foes, will be waged on the Campus Gridiron of Loyola College. These modern Greeks and Trojans are none other than the members of the Sophomore and Freshman Classes. The Freshies were the challengers. A fiery defy in the form of a gray-painted sign appeared on the bulletin board. The Sophomores were by no means reluctant in accepting. Their reply appeared on the opposite board in just five minutes.

A lively interest has been created in the affair and there is considerable talk among the upper classmen concerning the relative merits of both teams.

An idea of the sincerity and confidence of the rivals in the impending combat may be gained from the pre-game predictions of the captains. Mr. Twardowicz, the Sophomore Achilles says: "We're all prepared to give the Freshies a real drubbing. By the end of the game they will still be wearing the green and grey cha-peaux."

And this is how the Hector of the Freshmen in the person of Mr. Fitzgerald, quarter-back, expresses himself: "A team that will not be beaten, cannot be beaten. This is our motto and we intend to live up to it. We have a good line, an excellent backfield, and a great spirit which has been displayed even at this early stage. We expect to win, and we're going to win; so beware, Sophomores!"

Although the starting line-ups are not certain at this writing, it

GREYHOUND TO SPONSOR VOTE ON MOST REPRESENTATIVE MAN

We have our various captains of the athletic teams, respected, loved and envied. We have our star players, who are idolized, while their sport is in season. We have our brilliant students upon whom we look with awe and to whom we go with all our intellectual difficulties; their light shines with a dazzling brilliance but after a while we become used to the glare.

We know all this and agree as one and our opinion is as one even without comparing notes. But we are curious and would like to know, who is the most popular student at Loyola.

He may be a star in athletics or he may not be. He may be a wonderful and impelling speaker or he may lisp. He may be a consolation to his professors, when the rest of the class has failed or he may be one of those who occasionally fail to "come across." He may be a spend-thrift or he may be Scotch.

There may exist in him a combination of many of these qualities; he may even combine in his character the opposites, which when thrown into the melting pot of his nature may bring forth a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

But all these perfections and imperfections leave us without that upon which we may base our conclusion. There is one other thing

THANKSGIVING

It is interesting to note in passing that on the twenty-ninth of November, we celebrated a holiday of purely American origin. Thanksgiving, like the Fourth of July, is an holiday of strictly national significance, and differs in this respect from Christmas, New Years, Halloween and Easter, in that they are observed thruout the whole of Christendom, while the celebration of Thanksgiving is limited exclusively to the territorial United States.

The origin of the observance of Thanksgiving is linked up with the earliest history of colonial America. In 1621, after the Pilgrims, who had been buffeted by the storms of the North Atlantic and harassed by the bitter cold of a New England winter, reaped the fruits of their first harvest in the new land, Governor Bradley issued a proclamation setting aside a day for prayer and thanksgiving to the beneficent Providence, that had at last brought abundant fruits to their labors. His example was emulated by succeeding governors and this custom was repeated often in that and the succeeding century, until it had spread to practically all of the original thirteen colonies. Later during the trying days of the Revolution, when this republic was struggling in the throes of its nativity, Congress saw fit to set aside annually a day for general and public thanksgiving, and in 1784 this holiday takes on a special significance in that on this day prayers of thanksgiving were offered to God for the successful outcome of the War of Independence and the return of peace. In 1789, after the adoption of the Constitution, George Washington, then President of the United States, appointed a day of special gratitude because some means had been devised to successfully preserve the fruits of the Revolution. Again in 1795 he appointed another day of Thanksgiving for the general benefits and welfare of the growing nation. And in 1863 President Lincoln issued a proclamation appointing the last Thursday of November as Thanksgiving Day and declaring it to be a national holiday. From that time forth each president has followed his example and the last Thursday has been observed as a day of Thanksgiving and of prayer in the United States and its territories.

Another interesting observation appears in the fact that, while Thanksgiving, as observed in the United States, is a holiday of purely religious significance, it is not of ecclesiastic origin, but is by virtue of the proclamation of the President of the United States a national holiday; it is the one day on which the nation as a whole, Protestant, Jew and Catholic alike, renders thanks to its common Father.

And if we may be excused for mingling a little mundane philosophy with our observations, there is none whose lot is so poor that he has not the right, nay the duty, to be thankful, for from the mouths of babes and sucklings come words of wisdom, and we may, like the little boy, on this day at least be thankful that we are not a turkey.

ZAMBOANGA

Elsewhere in this publication will be found an excerpt taken from The Mindanao Herald, noting the fact that Father Murray has been appointed to head the high school of the Ateneo de Zamboanga.

Those who knew Father Murray while he was stationed at Loyola as professor of English and Spanish remember him as a quiet yet energetic man, a disciplinarian yet a friend to all with whom he came in contact.

The classes of '28, '29 and '30 had occasion to know him particularly well, more especially the class of '29 of which he is an honorary member.

Father Murray is to head the high school and it must be remembered that conditions which exist in that field are far removed from those which was his good fortune to

HISTORY ACADEMY

The second meeting of the Academy was called to order by the president, Mr. Doehler, Thursday, November 15th. The large number who attended augurs well for future meetings and is an index of the high interest students at Loyola take in History. At this meeting Mr. Cameron gave the opening paper of the year on the subject "What was the Renaissance?" His treatment of this important turning point in history was as able as it was fine. In tracing this movement he took two safe guides, the famous historian of the Popes, Ludwig Pastor and Godfrey Kurth, the renowned Belgian historian. Both these historians have treated this difficult period of history; Dr. Pastor in his first volume of the "History of the Popes" and Godfrey Kurth in his "L'Eglise aux Tournants de l'Histoire."

In pointing out that the Renaissance is, unquestionably, one of the most remarkable phenomena in the history of humanity, Mr. Cameron went on to tell us what precisely the Renaissance was. "The Renaissance," said the Lecturer, "is the the medieval to the modern order; it may be considered under two aspects: first the renewed appreciation of an ancient culture and second: the renewed diffusion of a liberal spirit, showing itself intellectually in boundless freedom of opinion in opposition to the principle of authority, and socially in imitation of pagan antiquity."

Although the horologe of time does not peal out the passage from one era to another, still according to Mr. Cameron we can say that the Renaissance had its source in the 13th century, reached its climax in the 14th and 15th centuries and was continued in an altered form during the religious struggles of the 16th century. This era was not so much a revival of learning as the flowering out of the learning of preceding centuries. Mr. Cameron then showed how the Church grasped the intellectual banner and directed the movement into its proper field. He said that the Church proposed to create in the full meaning of the term, a revival which would be Catholic, and she succeeded. "The Popes have made the 'Eternal City' a page of apologetics, written under their dictation by the greatest artists of the world, a page which will speak from century to century with super-human eloquence." At the end of the paper there was a general discussion from the floor, Mr. Cameron answering all questions put to him by the members.

The next meeting of the Academy will be held on December 6th, when Mr. Grogan will give a lecture on "The Popes at Avignon" with its sequel: "The Great Western Schism." At the same meeting Mr. Dunnigan will discuss "The Black Death and Its Effects on the 16th Century." The officers wish to state that all papers for the coming year have been selected and the program of the history Academy is now complete.

enjoy in this country. Bearing this in mind his many friends should not be of the opinion that Father Murray has been removed from the category of those whom we can help. THE GREYHOUND offers the suggestion that Father Murray be

ALUMNI NOTES

The "smoker-meeting" was a great success, as everyone who was present will testify. However these gatherings should have a larger attendance and if the young "grads" continue to manifest the same support which they have recently displayed, the number of active members will certainly grow.

The amendments to the constitution, submitted to the executive committee and signed by ten members of the Alumni, were proposed to those assembled and they will be accepted or rejected by popular vote at the next regular meeting. The proposed amendments to the constitution read thus:

Article VIII is hereby amended by striking out Section 1, and enacting in its place the following:

"Section 1—General Meetings.

The Association shall meet once a year for the Annual Election. The Annual Election in 1929 shall be held in January: the Annual Election in 1930 and thereafter shall be held in September. All active members shall be notified about the time and place by the Secretary of the Association, as determined by the Executive Committee.

Article IV is hereby amended by striking out Section 2 and enacting in its place the following:

Section 2—Term of Office.

(a) Officers.

1. The President and Two Vice-Presidents shall be elected by Ballot at the General Election in January, 1929, and shall serve until the General Election in September or October, 1930: thereafter beginning with the General Election in September, 1930, they shall be elected by Ballot annually in September, and shall serve for one year.

2. The Treasurer and Two Secretaries shall be appointed by the Executive Committee, at the first meeting after the General Election, when the Officers and Directors assemble to reorganize the Executive Committee. They shall serve for one year, except that the Treasurer and the Two Secretaries appointed after the General Election in January, 1929, shall serve until the General Election in September or October, 1930, and all Treasurers and Secretaries shall continue in office until their successors shall have been appointed.

(b) Directors.

The nine Directors shall be elected, three each year, by Ballot at the General Election, and shall serve each for three years, except that the three Directors elected in January, 1927, shall continue in office until September, 1930, the three Directors elected in January, 1928, shall continue in office until September or October, 1931, and the three Directors elected in January, 1929, shall serve until September or October, 1932.

adopted as the missionary to receive our special attention and interest. A general interest is expected in this missionary work but a special interest would accomplish greater results.

LOYOLA YIELDS FINAL TO ST. JOHN'S

Fumbling in Last Quarter Disastrous

The final game of the season took the Greyhounds to Brooklyn as guests of St. John's College. The Greyhounds were treated in an hospitable manner until the beginning of the third period when a succession of bad breaks, featuring fumbles and intercepted passes, enabled the St. John's Warriors to roll up a 4 touchdown lead to close their season with a 24-0 victory for the second win of the year.

About fifteen hundred fans assembled to watch both teams battle desperately during a scoreless first half to see one of those desperately fighting aggregations come back in the final half to send a still desperately fighting Greyhound team down to defeat.

The first half was replete with thrills, with dazzling runs for touchdowns, only to be called back; with desperate plunges over the goal line only to be declared not over, and a forty-eight yard dropkick that hit the cross bar only to bounce back into the playing field.

With but two minutes of the second half gone St. John's scored on the Loyola team with a pass from Margolis, St. John's left halfback, to Harry Meyer, quarterback, who ran unmolested over the goal line.

This was the orphan tally of the third period but the first play of the final period was productive of the second marker by the pass route, the ball being thrown for 25 yards to Jack Manning who ran the remaining 25 yards for the score.

Shortly after this Kinsbrunner intercepted a Greyhound lateral pass on the 45-yard mark and covered the 55 intervening yards to bring the score to 18 points.

The Johnnies were hitting on all cylinders by this time and it was just a minute later that Cooper intercepted a Greyhound pass and ran 70 yards to the ten-yard line. A pass, Meyers to R. Shepherd, put the ball on the one yard mark and Pace carried it over on the next play.

It was not surprising to learn that Ed. Healy put up the best game of the day. Cannon and Tierney alternated at halfback and deserve high praise for the splendid type of game played

NAVY TOO STRONG FOR GREYHOUNDS

Sails Hoisted Early to Outdistance Loyola

Navy trained her guns on Loyola and when the smoke of battle cleared away the Greyhounds were on the very short end of a 57-0 score. Big guns, little guns and just plain guns accomplished a devastating effect that left our lighter and inexperienced eleven dazed and breathless. Mass formations, counter attacks, aerial barrages and men quick to recover fumbles, all contributed to send Navy on its way in an effort to rival the score of the Green Terror-Greyhound game a few weeks previous. The timer's whistle prevented such a recurrence.

Loyola received a serious setback when Kane, who has been playing the last four games with a fractured thumb, fumbled the opening kick-off and Navy recovered on the 20-yard line. They carried the ball down the field and plunged over for the opening touchdown of the game scarcely two minutes after the game had begun.

Fumbles on the part of the Loyola backs were either directly or indirectly responsible for the greater number of Navy's touchdowns. Throughout the entire game passes were completed and off-tackle thrusts were successful for appreciable gains on the part of the Greyhounds only to go for naught when all the good work would be undone by a fumble, which was invariably recovered by a Navy man.

The score of the game does not denote the superiority of the Navy team, but merely gives an idea of how many times Loyola fumbled.

The Navy coach kept a constant stream of fresh and rested men flowing into the game so that Navy was always packing a few extra pounds of dry powder to be prepared for any counter attack on the part of Loyola.

Navy's touchdowns were distributed between Antrim and Mauro, each of these men scoring twice, and Crane, Lloyd, Welchel, Spring and Kolhas who crossed the goal

INJURIES PROVE FATAL FOR GREYHOUNDS

The Fortunes of the Greyhounds during the season just closed were affected in a great measure by the injuries sustained by the team. With promise of a fair season the Greyhounds opened up with Villa Nova and hardly two minutes had passed when Tierney was removed from the game with an injured knee. Coach "Tony" Comerford had been depending on Tierney for his line plunging and his injury was a hard blow to the program he had outlined.

With the exception of a few minutes in the Catholic U. game, Bill saw action in only the first and last game of the season. "Reds" Connolly received a knee injury in the Washington College game which further depleted the number of experienced backfield men. "Reds" did not see action again until the Navy game and even then he had not fully recovered.

These two injuries, no doubt, placed in the loss column several games that would otherwise have been victories. Jimmy Kane was also injured in the Washington College game, receiving a fractured thumb. This bit of bad luck found the regular quarter back present in a man which relegates the aforementioned into the background of secondary principles.

Who is the fellow with the brightest smile and a cheery greeting for everyone? Who is the chap to whom you go for advice about most anything and he will give you just enough? Who is the fellow who seems to be full of joy of living and everything about him is worthy of some commendation? His policy in this respect is that everything has its good points. Who is it that without being obstrusive is looked upon to be one of the main leaders if not the leader in the school activities; one who takes things seriously but not too seriously? Who is the Loyola man who possesses characteristics which at times irk you, but in the end attract you to him by an impelling force which you do not understand and do not try to explain.

It rests with you to decide this question. Who is that "personality-plus" man? Call it what you wish; it's there. Look around you; mark your ballot and hand it in at the GREYHOUND Office. We are curious.

INAUGURAL DANCE

When the strains of the last waltz ascended to the lofty rafters of the gym and awoke and re-awoke the echoes of Evergreen and another page in the volume of College Life had been turned, the Sophomore Frolique had ended, as all good things must, and Alma Mater's sons and their ladies bade her good-night and departed from that mystic, wonderful "Land o' Dreams."

The members of the Committee, those tireless (?) young men, despite their hollow-eyed and somewhat unsteady appearance, after their "twenty-four-hour" day of generous and unceasing labor on the decorations, were able to join in the "froliqing" to the success of which they had contributed so much. As all present seemed to enjoy themselves fully the Committee no doubt rested in contentment that night, for the object of all their labors had been attained.

Congratulations are due the Committee, and especially the Chairman, Mr. Carr, who, despite the many disadvantageous circumstances, persuaded Fortune to smile upon their

The honor system seems to be doomed as college after college agree to abolish it. Yale and Amherst are the latest to drop it.

It is said that a student might leave a text book any where around Stanford University and return to find it untouched months later.

CARD PARTY

The College appreciates the efforts of the markers, chance sellers, table attendants and the kindness of the donors of the luncheon chairs and tables, not to omit a grateful mention of those who volunteered their cars for transportation after the card-party. It was a success in every way.

The friends of Loyola College, both in town and out of town, were just as generous in the number, variety and beauty of the prizes they sent us as those prizes which elicited many favorable comments at the Card Party in February.

780,000 Chesterfield cigarettes are now sailing South-Polewards with the Byrd Antarctic Expedition. We are officially informed that the selection of Chesterfield resulted from the individually expressed preferences of a majority of the expedition's members.

When it is recalled that these are—in superlative sense — picked men . . . selected not only for bravery, ability and experience, but also by searching tests of physical fitness . . . we may be forgiven for our considerable pride in their vote. And something of this pride, we believe, will be shared by all Chesterfield smokers.

It is another of the many proofs piling up that the surest way to earn popularity is to deserve it!

DEBATING SOCIETIES

ROBERT BELLARMINE

On Thursday, Nov. 15, the "Robert Bellarmine Debating Society" held its weekly formal debate. The subject was a very timely one: "Resolved: That the Jury System should be Abolished." The affirmative side of this question was defended by Mr. Sodaro and Mr. Liston, while the negative side was championed by Mr. Green and Mr. Sanders. The debate was spirited. Mr. Sodaro vigorously led the attack on his side; the affirmative side being declared victor by a very close margin.

Some very interesting facts were disclosed by both sides. The affirmative brought to light the justice and necessity of a judge in place of a jury. The negative refuted this view by quoting some examples of the efficiency of a jury.

The following Thursday, Nov. 22, the question of the debate was: "Resolved: That the Present Immigration Law should be modified." Mr. Nieberding and Mr. Cameron took the affirmative stand while Mr. Patrick and Mr. Judge presented the negative view of the question. In this debate the Negative side was victorious.

An important point brought forth in this debate was that the present percentage of distribution among the immigrants is unfair and should be changed.

For the next debate on Dec. 6, the various aspects of the question: "Resolved: That Intercollegiate Football promotes the best interests of colleges," will be discussed.

GEORGE C. JENKINS

Last week's meeting of the George C. Jenkins Debating Society brought forward a very interesting debate on the question: "Resolved: That co-education in colleges is desirable". The affirmative side outlined its arguments under two heads: first that it was desirable for the college itself and second that it was desirable for the students. The negative took more of a burden upon itself in proving that co-education was undesirable intellectually, morally and socially as well as unnecessary. Neither side scored any outstanding point in its main speech. The speeches derived their strength rather from a series of minor arguments proving their contentions. But in the rebuttals the negative took advantage of the fact that a speaker of the opposition was continually stressing the good effected by co-education in the best college and made a telling point of the fact that the question read "in colleges" and not "in a special class of colleges". The outcome, however, was very close; so close in fact that the negative side won by the close score of eleven to nine. The sides were: Affirmative, Hartman and Klemkoski. Negative, Stork and Rozea. Next week there will be an open forum discussion in which every one will take part on the question: "Resolved: That intercollegiate football promotes the best interests of colleges."

CATHOLIC BOOK CLUB
OFFERS JORGENSEN

"Jorgensen," the November choice of the Catholic Book Club, is an autobiography of Johannes Jorgensen, translated from the Danish by Ingeborg Lund. It differs from the usual run of autobiographies in that it is written with the detachment of a novelist. "It is the book that a dreamer and an artist would write, the prose narrative of a poet." Jorgensen declares that he has in particular found the confirmation of one of his favorite ideas, namely that, "in life one reaches exactly that which in one's inmost soul one desired to reach."

In his autobiography Jorgensen unfolds the story of his gropings towards the truth and of his flights away from it. When still a lad, he shed his Lutheranism and became a revolutionist and a nihilist. At the University he became one of the extremest of radicals, an enemy of society, a socialist, anarchist, atheist, and, "as usually follows, a libertarian." Though in 1894, during a three months' visit to Assisi, his soul turned Catholic, yet he did not make his formal submission to the Church until February 1896.

Jorgensen is a most prolific author. Not only has he written much, but he has written so well that he is honored as one of the outstanding contemporary Danish stylists.

His biographies form only one section of the library he has published, for he is the author of books of poems, of travels and impressions, of polemics and apologetics, and of innumerable essays on art, literature and politics.

It may be said that Jorgensen has incorporated the most representative of all of his various subjects and of his diverse qualities of mind in this autobiographical volume sponsored by the Catholic Book Club.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

left behind when the Greyhounds journeyed to Pittsburgh for their game with Duquesne and on the following Saturday he cheered lustily from the rooting section as St. Francis handed Loyola a 7-0

With a wealth of backfield material these injuries may not have had such a telling effect, but Loyola was particularly poor in this department this year having but seven seasoned ball carriers at full strength; which full strength was not obtainable for even one full game.

The brunt of the attack during the season fell on the shoulders of Harold Monahan and Eddie Cannon. These two men were forced to do the majority of the running and before the season was over they were worn to a frazzle.

The line for the most part fared well and remained intact for the entire season. Ed Healy and Marino Intrieri were the two shining lights of the line; while Curtis, playing his first year of college ball, has given promise of developing into a real threat.

With the passing of only three of the regulars of this year Coach Comerford has the nucleus of a promising team for next year.

FR. MURRAY TO HEAD HIGH SCHOOL AT ZAMBOANGA

We present herewith an article taken from The Mindanao Herald for October 6. The Father O'Shaughnessy mentioned is the brother of the Rev. William B. O'Shaughnessy, Junior Philosophy Professor of last year and former dean of Loyola. The Rev. Alfred F. Kienle was stationed at Loyola High School last year.

"Rev. Thomas J. Murray, of the Society of Jesus, arrived at Zamboanga last week and has been assigned to duty in charge of the high school which is to be a part of the Ateneo de Zamboanga.

"Father Murray came down from Manila on the S. S. Luzon with four other American priests, all of whom have but recently arrived from the United States. The other four were: Fathers Thomas F. Gallagher, Alfred F. Kienle, Martin J. O'Shaughnessy and James L. O'Neill and they all have been assigned to the province of Misamis.

"It is understood to be the policy of the Jesuit Order to replace all Spanish priests in Mindanao with Americans when the former retire or are called to their reward. The Spanish Jesuits have labored in this southern field since the first days of the Spanish conquest. Many of those at present are being overtaken by age and it is a sad fact that not less than five of them have died in harness during the past year. Twenty-one young American priests are now in Mindanao. A roll call might remind one of De Valera and his Irish patriots, but they are all good Americans nevertheless.

"Father Murray is a Philadelphian who finished his education in the University of Salamanca. He is young and full of pep and zeal. Being a modern of the highest type, it is predicted he will become a great force for progress in these southern islands."

We, who had the good fortune not only of making his acquaintance but also of having him as our professor, agree that Father Murray possesses all the qualities attributed to him by The Mindanao Herald and that he shall be successful in this work as he was at Loyola.

During Father Murray's professorship at Loyola debating was revived from its dormant state and made a live and throbbing unit of our college life.

With Father Murray as Moderator the "George C. Jenkins Debating Society" functioned in a manner that was a credit to the institution, and several outside debates were held.

FR. AYD REPRESENTS LOYOLA AT JUBILEE CELEBRATION

Rev. Joseph J. Ayd represented Loyola College at the Golden Jubilee Celebration held at St. Mary's Seminary on November 20th in honor of Reverend Arsemus Bayer S. S.

After Father Bayer had been awarded the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy, Father Ayd gave a short address in which he expressed in terms of deep affection the happiness and honor that were his in taking part in the Golden Jubilee Celebration of his old Professor and dear friend.

Father Ayd was a student at St. Mary's before he entered the Society of Jesus and it was there that he first met Father Bayer as his professor of Philosophy. Father Ayd attributes to Father Bayer his start in the special study on the subject of Criminology. "It was through Father Bayer's outstanding qualities of simplicity and humility" said Father Ayd in part, "that I first learned to deal with criminals."

That Father Ayd has used these "first principles" to their fullest advantage is evidenced in the fact that he has recently been requested by Governor Ritchie to investigate the Parole System of Maryland. The Governor will bring before the Legislature the recommendations which Father Ayd will deem advisable to submit.

LECTURE GIVEN BY PARKE DAVIS & CO.

Thru the courtesy of Parke Davis and Co., manufacturers of medical product, a lecture illustrated by several reels of motion pictures was given to the students of chemistry and biology on Wednesday, November 21st. The subject was the manufacture and use of sera and antitoxins.

Mr. Stephens the firm's representative first outlined the history of preventative medicine from the time of Jenner to the present day. The films then showed step by step the preparation and use of some of the more important antitoxins, vaccines and sera. Beginning with the model laboratories where pure cultures of the bacteria are obtained then passing to the extremely sanitary farm where the cattle used in making the antitoxins are kept, the innoculating of the animals and the draining of the blood were shown, then back to the laboratories where the preparations undergo their final purification and are sealed and sent to all parts of the country.

Every scene in the film was a lesson in modern scientific method especially along the line of antiseptic treatment of medical products.

GREYHOUND, Hugh Meade seems to be the logical man for the position of Editor.

THE GREYHOUND offers its congratulations to Mr. Blair and Mr. Meade and wishes them success in their undertakings, but at the same time reminds the student body that without their whole hearted support of this project it cannot succeed. Judging from the support we are receiving, however, we predict success.
